FALL 2017

CLIMATE RESILIENCE UPDATE

Detroit Shoreway Community Development Organization (DSCDO) is proud to take part in the Kresge Foundation-funded Climate Resilience and Urban Opportunity Initiative (CRUOI) in the Detroit Shoreway neighborhood. Cleveland was chosen as one of 12 U.S. cities to receive funding for three years of climate resiliency programming (2016-2018). The grant allows Cleveland Neighborhood Progress to work closely with community development corporations, like DSCDO, to (1) reduce energy usage, (2) increase residents' sense of environmental safety, and (3) foster social cohesion and inclusion.

This summer, DSCDO staff and the four Detroit Shoreway neighborhood resident climate ambassadors (Moneeke Davis, Michael Armstrong, Jocelyn McCane, and Donna Friedman) attended and hosted events such as Recess Cleveland, the Health and Safety Fair, and composting workshops with Rust Belt Riders to educate residents on safety initiatives in unique, fun, and interactive ways.

The CRUOI also funded the newly completed Dudley Triangle Pocket Park (W. 73rd & Dudley Avenue, between Madison and Lorain). The vision behind this project was to create a central community gathering place for educational, environmental, and social events. The site for the park was identified in the Southwest Detroit Shoreway Master Plan prepared by Kent State Cleveland Urban Design Collaborative in 2016, and the design was created with input from community members last fall during a series of "design days" at Zone Rec, the Lorain Library, and the site itself.

CALL TO ACTION

Here's what you can do to address climate resilience in our neighborhood:

- Get weatherized. Free and low-cost programs are available.
- Sign up for Code Red. When weather or infrastructure emergencies strike, be ready by signing up to get alerts through City of Cleveland's Code Red program.
- Attend climate resilience events and workshops at Dudley Triangle.
- For more information or to get involved, contact Adam Davenport, DSCDO Project & Operations Manager, at adavenport@dscdo.org, or at 216-961-4242 Ext. 265.

NEIGHBORHOOD EVENTS

There is so much to look forward to in Detroit Shoreway this fall and early winter of 2017!

DIA DE MUERTOS - Free Event
 Saturday, October 28 | Cleveland Public Theatre
 Campus (6205 Detroit Avenue)

Dia de Muertos, also known as Day of the Dead, is a cultural tradition in many Latin American countries. Deceased loved ones are honored as family and friends come together to celebrate both life and death.

Artistas Latinos Unidos and Cleveland Public Theatre are proud to present this exciting event from 11AM-10PM. The Gordon Square Arts District will be transformed by artist-curated altars, sugar skulls, musical and artistic performances, local merchant specials, and more. Face painting will be available until 3PM.

Event Highlight: Be sure to catch the Procession of Skeletons and Skulls parade at 3:30PM as it travels west from Cleveland Public Theatre's eastern campus down Detroit Avenue!

Follow @DiadeMuertosOhio on Facebook for the latest event updates.

WINTERTIDE at GORDON SQUARE - Free Event
 Saturday, December 9 | Gordon Square Arcade

DSDCO is excited to announce that planning is underway for the second year of WINTERTIDE at Gordon Square! WINTERTIDE is an art-infused holiday experience that is "uniquely Gordon Square". Last year, the event drew thousands to the heart of the district to enjoy headlining performances by Cleveland Public Theatre, Near West Theatre, and Pinch and Squeal's WIZBANG!, roving performances by local artists and musicians, delicious cuisine, fine art, and more.

WINTERTIDE is the perfect opportunity to holiday shop while supporting local businesses. This year, we will be holding the festival in conjunction with the Cleveland Bazaar at 78th Street Studios, and a shuttle will provide free transportation between the two events. Guests can also browse the unique shops on Lorain Avenue.

Be sure to follow @detroitshoreway on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram for more information coming soon on neighborhood events!

What's Happening at The Capitol Theatre?

Back in April, DSCDO raised money for technical upgrades and interior cosmetic repairs for the Capitol Theatre. From August 27-31, the theater went "dark" as DSCDO put over $100k toward ensuring that the historic west side movie house remains a neighborhood gem for years to come.

In addition to theatre upgrades, DSDCO has also revamped our Capitol Theatre e-newsletter! The biweekly "Silver Screen" will give you an exclusive first look at unique upcoming programming and special events happening at the Capitol. Opt-in to the Silver Screen by emailing lweiler@dscdo.org.

Thank you for your continued support of the theater!

Looking to stay in the loop on exciting neighborhood happenings? Email lweiler@dscdo.org to opt-in to the updated Detroit Shoreway e-newsletter—the Community Catalyst! This bi-weekly newsletter will feature upcoming events, general updates, and opportunities to get involved in the community.
